Crafted from gold, brown diamonds and ebony, Valentina Brugnattelli's necklaces, rings and bracelets are unique art objects that some of the world's top fashion designers choose to pair with their own creations. Behind this signature style is an Italian designer who developed her individual point of view while living in Switzerland and studying fashion in Paris. The independent spirit and global experience that motivates Valentina's refined and eclectic accessories resonates in the name of the design group she works with, The Wandering Collective.
